EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

I belong to a generation where names beginning with the letter 'S' were hugely popular. My sister, me and loads of cousins and friends were part of this 'S' club (elite club, we thought) and we felt very proud too. A string of beautiful and meaningful names! To get a good idea about its popularity, one need to look no further than my engineering class. We had two sections in my chosen stream and each section had about 60 students. In my section, there were 50 students whose names started with 'S', each being unique, with only a sprinkling of 'R's, 'T's, 'U's and 'V's. That's quite a stunning proportion. Now, a generation later, I started seeing that the mighty 'S' was slowly fading into the ordinary and getting replaced by the letter 'A'. Many of my friends' and cousins' children have names starting with 'A' and they either had a 'new' ring to it or were a re-discovered Sanskrit name. I often wondered why any parent would do that to their child, that is, give them the possibility of being roll number-1 in the class, especially those that spelt their kid's name with a double 'A'. You never want to be the first one in a viva exam! I love 'A' names as much as I love 'S' names. I've proven it by naming my daughter with an 'A' name. I did show some mercy and spared her the double 'A'. She could still be in the second batch of the viva exam.

Couple sue son for not giving grandchild

Dehradun: A couple in Uttarakhand has taken their son to Court, asking him to either pay back the 6,50,000 dollars they claim to have invested in him or give them a grandchild within a year.

Sanjeev and Sadhana Prasad filed a highly unusual lawsuit against their own son on the grounds of 'mental harassment.' They claim to have invested substantial sums of money for his education and professional training over the years, helped him financially when he couldn't find a job and arranged and paid for his wedding in 2016.

In return, they were expecting a 'grandchild to play with' during their retirement years. As their son didn't deliver as expected, the couple is taking legal action against him.

'Fully-destroyed' sneakers for 1,850 dollars

New York: Designer brand Balenciaga recently unveiled a new limited-edition line of footwear so damaged and dirty that most people wouldn't be caught wearing it in public.

The promotional photos put out by the fashion house have sparked quite the controversy on social media, with people wondering if Balenciaga is just trolling its fans at this point, and others trying to understand why anyone would pay 1,850 dollars for its new 'fully destroyed' sneakers.

But even though reactions to the bizarre footwear – of which only 100 pairs are available for purchase – have been overwhelmingly negative, one could say that Balenciaga's marketing team reached its goal. People are talking about the beat-up sneakers and photos of them are all over social media. I guess that's a win, right?

Rashtra Punarnirmanakkagi Vidyarthi Samskruti Chaluvali

Indian classical music is the mother of all music: Pravin Godkhindi

Mysuru, May 16 (MTY&TRR)- "Indian classical music is the mother of all music. The strength of our classical music cannot be seen in any form of music in the world," said noted flautist Pravin Godkhindi.

He was speaking after inaugurating 'Rashtra Punarnirmanakkagi Vidyarthi Samskruti Chaluvali' organised by Akhila Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishat (ABVP) at Karnataka State open University (KSOU) Convocation Hall here on Friday.

"In the tradition of music, Indian music is very powerful and because of this we all should proudly say that our classical music is the mother of all music. Foreign music has lot of noise and because of this the youths are getting attracted to it. Even in the midst of noise associated with the foreign music, Indian music has the power to attract, captivate and mesmerise the listeners," he opined.

Exhorting the youths to retain our cultural identity instead of following foreign culture, Pravin Godkhindi felt that it is very essential for building a cultured society and we must all realise our responsibilities in building a cultured society.

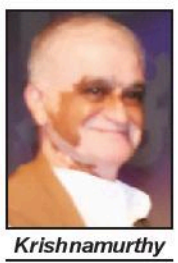
Flautist Vidwan Pravin Godkhindi inaugurating 'Rashtra Punarnirmanakkagi Samskruti Chaluvali' at a programme organised at KSOU Convocation Hall on Friday as others look on.

"The foreign musicians are projecting their music as one breath art, but it has its roots in Indian classical music and Indians have already achieved expertise in this art since centuries. I have seen conch being blown continuously for 45 minutes in a single breath. I have also done an experiment in playing flute for longer duration in a single breath. We need not blindly follow the foreign culture but concentrate more on retaining our cultural identity," he advised.

Asserting that a lot of study and research have been done on main components of Indian music namely Hindustani and Karnatak Classical music, Godkhindi asked the youths not to follow anything blindly and have love for our language, culture and art forms.

"You all must realise your responsibilities in building a cultured society. There is culture in the literature and practises of our ancestors and we must become more cultured by understanding them properly. The entire world is looking towards India for inspiration and we must match their expectations and imbibe new qualities", he said and played flute for 5 minutes to mesmerise the audience. In the 'Rashtra Punarnirmanakagi Samskruti Chaluvali' programme, about 1,500 students from across the State participated and showcased their talents. Competitions were held in street play, folk group dance, group singing of folk songs, classical group dance, group singing of patriotic songs, painting, idol making, reciting of self written poems, debate, essay writing and photography.

Agitations losing their basic form, power and meaning: RSS Pracharak



Krishnamurthy

Mysuru, May 16 (MTY&TRR)- Senior Pracharak of Rashtriya Swaymsevak Sangh (RSS) P.R. Krishnamurthy has said that the present day agitations and movements have lost power, meaning and form because of various reasons.

He was speaking at the two- day 'Rashtriya Punarnirmanakkagi Samskruti Chaluvali- 3' function programme, organised by Akhila Bharatiya Vidyarti Parishat (ABVP) at Karnataka State Open University Convocation Hall on Friday.

There is lot of difference between the movements and agitations of yesteryears and today, he opined.

"The present movements and agitations have lost their basic form and meaning. Stone pelting, swords brandishing, setting fire, resorting to injustice and rape are the present form of movements and agitations. Because of these traits, people are scared of agitations, protests and movements. India has a good history and big tradition of movements and agitations. Bhakti movement, non-violence movement and various movements and agitations have been held in this country. Such movement should be role models for us," he added.

Stating that it is good that the ABVP is starting a Cultural Movement, he felt that society gets strength from its culture and a society without good culture is like a corpse.

"Without a good culture it is not possible to build a better nation. Hitherto, agitations and movements used to be held towards building a better society and nation. Movements should be organised for a good cause. Such a culture will add strength to the society. But some countries are devoid of society, culture and hence have become lifeless. Culture is very important for any society and it is impossible to imagine a society without culture," said Krishnamurthy.

Explaining that the various art forms of a country portray its culture, he said that it is the responsibility of the youth community to save and develop the culture.

ABVP Rashtriya Kalamanch Convenor Niranjan, who too spoke said that culture is the biggest power of this world and this culture is expressed through various art forms. "We can emote better through art forms than through spoken words and because of this ABVP is providing platforms at school and college levels for students to take part in cultural activities," he added.

Earlier, the programme was inaugurated by flautist Vidwan Praveen Godkhindi by playing flute. KSOU Vice-Chancellor Prof. S. Vidyashankar, Theatre activist Sambashiva Dalvoy, ABVP State Secretary Manikanta Kalasa, Karnataka Sahitya Academy President Dr. B.V. Vasantha Kumar, Division Associate Secretary Aishwarya and others were present.

H.R. Kasturirangan, IPS, who gave a new dimension to policing in Mysuru

By S.B. Devaraj

Mysuru, May 16- Three decades ago, criminals and anti-social elements in Mysuru dreaded the name of IPS Officer H.R. Kasturirangan, when he was the Mysuru City Police Commissioner. People remember his efforts in maintaining of Law and Order and safety of citizens.

Even in the middle of the night he used to pick up his phone in just one ring and used to say, "Kasturirangan". This utterance was reassuring to many people who were in distress.

Kasturirangan served as City Police Commissioner from Dec. 28, 1992 to May 6, 1995. Here are some of the initiatives taken by him when he was the Police Commissioner.

Traffic signal at K.R. Circle

Despite stiff opposition by traders and other businessmen, Kasturirangan went ahead with his plans for installation of traffic signal lights at K.R. Circle in the heart of the city, where there is heavy density of traffic.

Strongly opposing the move, the trading community had petitioned the then Chief Minister Dr. M. Veerappa Moily seeking a halt to traffic signal installation, as they believed that the signal light and disallowing vehicle parking around the K.R. Circle would hurt their business. They had also submitted a memorandum to the then District Minister A.H. Vishwanath against the move.

Later, Dr. Moily summoned Kasturirangan and questioned him on the installation of traffic signals at K.R. Circle. Defending the move saying that the traffic signal was absolutely necessary for proper regulation of traffic and also in the interests of safety of citizens and pedestrians, the IPS Officer succeeded in convincing the CM on the need for traffic signal at K.R. Circle junction.

H.R. Kasturirangan, IPS

Upset with the idea of traffic signal, the trading community knocked on the doors of the High Court. Then, Kasturirangan asked his subordinates to prepare a comprehensive report on the necessity of installing traffic signal lights and banning vehicle parking at the Circle.

After getting the report, he sent it to the then Advocate General Santosh Hegde (who later became a Supreme Court Judge and Karnataka Lokayukta), following which Justice Hegde, based on the report, argued on behalf of Mysuru Police. The High Court, convinced by the arguments of Justice Hegde, gave nod for installation of traffic signals and ban on vehicle parking at K.R. Circle.

Further, Kasturirangan banned all types of demonstrations and protests at K.R. Circle, which till then, had become a 'permanent centre' for staging of protests. As the protests continued at the venue despite the ban, he served notices to his subordinates questioning them on their failure to implement the ban order.

Anti-Rowdy Squad

In the 1990s, rowdy culture that was very much active in Bengaluru, seemed to enter even Mysuru, when Kasturirangan in a bid to end the menace, formed an Anti-Rowdy Squad to curb unruly and anti-social elements who were thriving then.

The attack on two Policemen on duty near a theatre on Chamaraja Double Road, further prompted him to strengthen the Anti-Rowdy Squad, following which the then Police Officer K.S. Thammaiah (now late) was asked to lead the Squad which comprised Inspectors Puttaswamygowda and T.K. Dharmesh.

Acting under the directions of the Police Commissioner, the Squad was successful in rooting out rowdyism in Mysuru to a large extent by the time Kasturirangan was transferred.

Crime review meetings on Tuesdays

Kasturirangan was probably the first Police Commissioner to hold regular meetings with Police Inspectors of all Police Stations to tackle crimes and their detection. The meeting commonly used to take place on Tuesdays and when such meetings were underway, no one was allowed to meet him. During weekly crime review meetings, Kasturirangan used to set a deadline for detection of cases.

Sharing his experience, a retired Police Officer said that Kasturirangan, an honest, able and a very effective Police Commissioner that he was, did not tolerate any lies or pretexts that were told by his subordinates when it came to prevention and detection of crimes and maintenance of Law and Order. Such was his commitment to duty that Kasturirangan called up a Police Inspector and asked him about his location, when he said that he was very much in the Police Station. After some time, he called him up again and questioned him where he was. Then also, the Inspector gave the same reply saying that he was in the Police Station.

Doubtful of the Inspector's reply, Kasturirangan went to the Police Station to have a check and his doubt became real when the Inspector was not found there. Soon he called the Inspector again to say that he (Kasturirangan) was in the Police Station.

Shocked by the visit of the Commissioner, the Inspector rushed to his Police Station and stood before him with a sense of guilt. Questioning the Inspector on why he lied, Kasturirangan told him that he would not tolerate such lies and careless attitude and warned him of disciplinary action if he does not correct himself, according to the former Police Officer.

In yet another example of his commitment to Police service, Kasturirangan did not forget his duty even when on leave. He had installed a Wireless facility in his personal Fiat car, which he used for interacting with his subordinates from wherever he was. He used to give regular tips to Police Officers on tackling crimes and maintenance of Law and Order. As he was in constant touch with his subordinates, maintenance of Law and Order was very good and the crime graph too had come down drastically, according to Police Officers who served under him.

Kasturirangan was transferred to the Vigilance Cell of the then KEB, where too he showed his efficiency by putting an end to power thefts. He also accompanied the KEB staff for installation of meters at a time when it had become common to drive away KEB staff whenever they visited — homes, villages or other places — for installation of energy meters. Kasturirangan was instrumental in collecting Rs.30 lakh as penalty from power theft accused.

Early days

As regards his career, Kasturirangan began his profession as Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP) at Bengaluru, where he rooted out prostitution which was rampant then. He later served as Bhalki Dy.SP in Bidar district and Dakshina Kannada SP, where too he was a terror to anti-social elements, criminals and other offenders.

Kasturirangan hailed from Hulikal in Arakalgud taluk of Hassan district where he has renovated the centuries-old Lakshminarasimhaswamy temple. Even after retirement from service, Kasturirangan has continued his work for society by forming a Horticultural Produce Processing Co-operative Society at his native village, which he continues to head even today.

Having concern for the farming community, Kasturirangan has established an Agricultural Credit Co-operative Society at Hulikal and an Arecanut Marketing Co-operative Society at Shivamogga.

In recognition of his service as a Police Officer, Kasturirangan was conferred the Chief Minister's Gold Medal in 1983 and the President's Medal in 1988 and 1999. He was honoured by the Karnataka Government with the Rajyotsava Award in 2020.

Today, he was honoured by Police personnel, who served under him at Mysuru in 1993-94 at a programme held at Police Bhavan on Lalitha Mahal Road. The then DCPs of Mysuru, Ulfat Hussain and Dr. Satish, son of late DCP Keshavaiah too were honoured on the occasion ■

The event was organised at Police Bhavan this morning by the Policeman who served Mysuru city in 1993 and all those constables and officers including women Police who were benefited by the three officers were present. Many of them were promoted by Kasturirangan after recognising their contributions.

As the former officers and Dr. Satish entered the auditorium, they were warmly welcomed and flowers were showered on them. Many present and retired officers fell at their feet to take their blessings. "He appointed over 300 women Police and promoted many Sub-Inspectors to Inspectors. It was Kasturirangan who reigned in unruly auto drivers who fleeced customers and fixed a price based on distance. He was well-known to the people of Mysuru and his contributions are etched in the memory of Mysureans," a speaker said.

DCP (Law and Order) Pradeep Gunti, DCP (Crime and Traffic) M.S. Geetha Prasanna, CAR DCP Shivaraju, orator Prof. M. Krishnegowda, retired Dy.SP Puttaswamygowda and others were present.

The DDPI told Star of Mysore that all 3,363 State Board schools in the district re-opened today and the students were distributed text books and other stationeries. Asserting that all precautionary measures have been taken to ensure the health of children, in the wake of outbreak of Tomato Flu and other epidemics, the DDPI said that the authorities have been directed to make periodic visits to schools.

Noting that at present, the classes will be held from 10 am to 4 pm, he said that the Department expected a 60 percent attendance on the re-opening day, with continuous rains proving to be a dampener for children.

National Dengue Day today

Mysuru reports 139 dengue cases in just 4.5 months

High prevalence in Ramakrishnanagar, Dattagalli, Kuvempunagar, Hootagalli and Periyapatna

Mysuru, May 16 (MTY&BCT)- Today, May 16, is National Dengue Day, an initiative by the Union Ministry of Health and Family Welfare to spread awareness about the vector-borne disease and its preventive methods.

While the Mysuru District Administration and the Health and Family Welfare Department are conducting various awareness programmes, the cases of dengue in the district have reached worrying proportions. From January 1 to May 16, 139 cases have been reported.

Last year, 182 cases were reported and when compared to that, this year, 139 cases have been reported in four months, 16 days. Of the 139 cases, 5 are that of chikungunya. When compared to the 10-year data from 2012, 2017 saw 843 cases, the highest in 10 years. It was closely followed by 2016 that reported 582 cases. (see table). In the last 10 years, there have been five deaths.

Dengue fever, often known as break-bone fever, is an infection spread by mosquitoes that can cause severe flu-like diseases. It is caused by four distinct viruses and spread by Aedes mosquitoes. These mosquitoes also transmit yellow fever, Zika viruses, and chikungunya.

This year, of the 139 cases, 103 are from Mysuru urban. In total, 235 samples were tested and 103 turned positive. Mysuru city is closely followed by Mysuru rural with 13 cases while 38 samples were tested. In all, in Mysuru district, 320 samples were tested from January this year to May and 139 have tested dengue-positive.

"Each individual must understand the disease's consequences and the measures they must take to prevent becoming afflicted with it. Every member of the community must play a significant role in preventing dengue," District Health Officer (DHO) Dr. K.H Prasad told Star of Mysore this morning.

Year	Dengue	Deaths	Chikungunya
2012	15	-	5
2013	334	3	7
2014	65	-	13
2015	382	-	111
2016	582	-	152
2017	843	2	78
2018	49	-	41
2019	122	-	81
2020	32	-	13
2021	182	-	37
2022 (January to May 16)	139	-	5

Urban, semi-urban, rural vulnerable areas

Mentioning about the areas where there is high prevalence of dengue and chikungunya, Dr. Prasad said that in Mysuru city, Ramakrishnanagar, Dattagalli and Kuvempunagar have been identified as vulnerable areas and in the semi rural areas, Hootagalli has been classified as vulnerable and in the rural area, it is Periyapatna.

"It is a viral disease caused by the dengue virus and is transmitted by the Aedes mosquito (Aedes aegypti) bite infected with any one of the four dengue viruses. The mosquito bites in daylight, which develops in the person after 3-14 days of the infective bite. The only way to prevent dengue is by avoiding mosquito bite because a vaccine can't protect against dengue," he added.

As part of the dengue control measures, door-to-door surveillance (information education and communication) and educational campaigns are held regularly. "We focus on 'fight the bite' and control. Breeding grounds such as collected water in tumblers, tyres must be cleaned at least once a week so that the 7-day larvae breeding cycle is disrupted. We advise people to sleep with mosquito nets and also after application of repellent creams," Dr. Prasad added.

The Aedes mosquito stays in clean or stagnant water. Remove any stagnant water in your surroundings. The water in coolers, containers, buckets, etc. should be cleaned and removed every once a week, he explained. If more than 10 percent of the population in any particular area is infected with dengue, then fogging is carried out at regular intervals.

WORD OF THE DAY

Orientate

Pronunciation: OR-ee-un-tayt.
Meaning: Orientate means "to set in a definite position," "to acquaint with an existing situation or environment," or "to direct toward the interests of a particular group."
Origin: Orientate is a synonym of orient. Both can mean "to cause to face toward the east." The proper noun Orient refers to "the East." The verbs, however, have broader meanings that relate to setting or determining direction or position, either literally or figuratively. Orientate tends to be used more often in British English than it is in American English.
Example: "Everything is walkable.... We were not far from the main Skanderbeg Square, so it was easy to orientate ourselves." — Suzanne Moore

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Off his own bat

Meaning: By an individual's own efforts.
Origin: One question that often gets asked about the figurative expression 'off his own bat' is "should that be 'off his own back'"? Well no, it shouldn't. 'Off your own back' originated as a mishearing of the former expression. It has gained sufficient currency to be considered as a viable everyday alternative of the correct version, but purists dismiss it as a straightforward error. Bats come in many forms of course and, as is always the case with such words when they occur in phrases where the context clear, the meaning is open to fanciful interpretations. So, as with the yards in 'the whole nine yards', which are guessed to be any number of things, the 'bat' in 'off his own bat' has been said to be one of these: the flying mammal, a butter pat, a tool used in brickmaking etc, etc. In fact, the bat in question is a cricket bat and the first activity that was said to be done 'off someone's own bat' was to score runs. The first citation of 'off his own bat' in print comes from the pen of the celebrated cricket historian and statistician Henry Thomas Waghorn, in Cricket Scores, 1742: "The bets on the Slendon man's head that he got 40 notches off his own bat were lost."
The 'Slendon man' was probably Richard Newland, the star of the Slindon Cricket Club and cricket's first great all-rounder.
